It's been a while since we last posted. We have been busy restructuring our programmes and building our team on the ground to provide the best possible support to our students. From digital literacy to personal development, creating a skills bank and matching our students with job opportunities, we are excited about the next months ahead of us. Contributing to changing the trajectory of people's lives through education and the validation of their previous achievements is what keeps us going, and we keep going strong!

We're blown away by the dedication of our students who have now racked up a total of almost 2000 study hours! 🙌

Affected by displacement and conflict, ConnectionHub students face and overcome many challenges in order to pursue an education and work towards their goals.

Our work is made possible by everyone who supports us; from our partner organisations and volunteers to those who donate towards our cause. We want to say a huge thank you to everyone who has supported us so far!

Help us continue to make a difference to the lives of refugees and asylum seekers by sponsoring a student. More details can be found here: <https://bit.ly/3a3hczA>

Meet the team!
We're really excited to introduce you to our fantastic team and give you an insight into the great work that our volunteers do.
This week, we'll be hearing from Robyn!
"My name is Robyn and I am the Executive Assistant at ConnectionHub. I support the Executive Director in day-to-day operations and projects. Every day at CH is unique - I have supported many different programmes and partnerships, spent time getting to know students and their goals, and gained expertise in various IT programmes.
My academic history concluded in me achieving a Distinction in Migration and Development Studies at the University of Sussex. During this time I studied many of the hardships experienced by displaced people, and this motivated me to dedicate my career to supporting refugees and asylum seekers in challenging circumstances. CH's mission resonated with me, as someone who has worked in education before and understands not only its importance but the importance of it being delivered to a high standard."

Today we are delighted to announce our partnership with ConnectionHub

ConnectionHub is an organisation dedicated to helping refugees access online educational opportunities and develop new skillsets, through classes, mentoring and seminars.

ConnectionHub is currently providing online Greek language classes for our interpreters, who are working side by side with our Greek staff on a daily basis. These classes are deeply important as they provide the opportunity for our refugee staff members to integrate into Greek society and bridge the communication gap between the two communities. It also provides the priceless opportunity for our staff to keep learning and accessing education wherever they go.

At CMA we strongly believe in positive community integration and life long learning for all. We want to say a big thank you to ConnectionHub for helping us to achieve this goal!

We are so excited to announce our ongoing partnership with Crisis Management Association.

Working to provide medical care to those displaced by conflict or disaster, CMA strives for "positive community integration", a goal close to our hearts.

We believe that mental health is a key facet of overall wellbeing, and that therefore access to education can help support the health of refugees in difficult times.

It's been a busy week for us here at ConnectionHub! We have another new program launch - Farsi Web Design!

In an increasingly digital world, web design is a great skill to possess, and IT is an area many refugees struggle to break into.

Our aim is to ensure that refugees have as many options for future employment in their host countries as possible - in areas they are interested in, and can excel at.

What other skills do you think are crucial for careers these days?

"There is a dissociation between people being refugees and human beings. In countries like the UK, vitriol and nationalist rhetoric have fortified prejudice against refugees and asylum seekers". But what caused the refugee crisis in Europe?

Read all about it in our latest blog: an overview of the causes - and the responses - to the refugee crisis in Europe. <https://bit.ly/2OpQeKT>

Today is the International Day of Education. Education is a fundamental human right. As stated by @malala, Noble Prize winner, education activist and refugee, education has the power to change people's lives; access to education provides people with a secure future and sense of self.

The UN estimates that over 4 million children and youth refugees are out of education. This problem continues into adulthood, with many mature refugees missing significant gaps in their education due to displacement and uncertainty. The education deficit experienced by refugees creates further barriers to meaningful employment and a fulfilling life.

At ConnectionHub, we aim to empower refugees on the island of Lesbos through providing access to advanced education programs. If you want to support our students and ConnectionHub's work, join our grassroots campaigning group, Students Without Borders. Link in bio!

👋 Meet the team 👋
Meet Danielle!

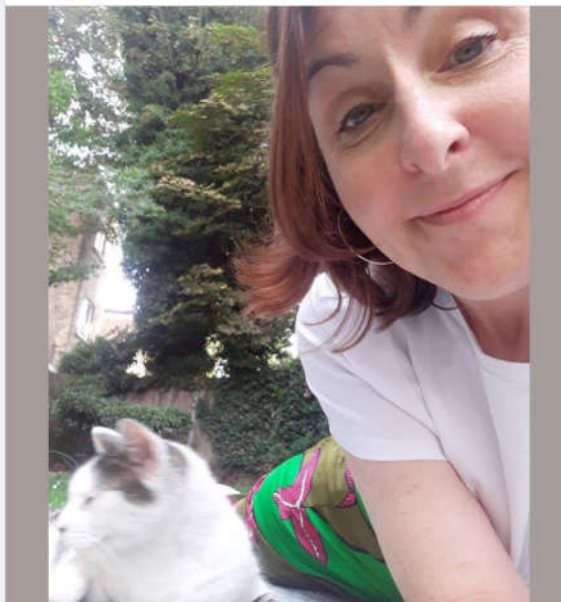

1. Tell us briefly about yourself and your role at ConnectionHub
I'm a writer and editor but recently took a career break to do a master's degree in Urbanisation and Development. (I can highly recommend career breaks, by the way!). At ConnectionHub I'm a mentor on the new, and super-important Women in Crisis Leadership Programme.

2. Why did you want to get involved with ConnectionHub?
Honestly, it's a brilliant cause. The education deficit experienced by refugees is really concerning. Skills and learning play such a fundamental role in people's livelihoods, wellbeing and sense of agency.

3. What do you enjoy about being on the team?
As part of the volunteer mentor team, I love how we're all figuring it out together. It's a new experience for some of us and everyone is monumentally generous in sharing advice. It's also gratifying being involved in the early days of a new organisation and having that sense that you are contributing to something so worthwhile that is developing so fast.

We want to say big thank you for your generous donations to our Christmas campaign "The Gift of Education"! With your support we have been and will be able to continue to provide quality education to all our students.

If you were unable to donate this Christmas, there are still ways you can get involved with ConnectionHub's work. Click the link in our bio to become part of our grassroots campaigning team Students Without Borders, which officially launches in February!

Thanks again from everyone at ConnectionHub! 🙏
